What do you think is happening here?

What Jewish values do you see reflected in this photo?

“In the same way that wine gladdens the heart, so too do words of Torah... Just as wine cannot exist in a silver vessel or a gold vessel, but rather in one of earthenware—in the same way the words of Torah cannot exist with one who sees himself as a vessel of silver and a vessel of gold but rather with one who sees himself as like the lowest of vessels, like an earthenware vessel.” - Sifre Devarim 48

How does this text relate to the photograph?

“These are the mitzvot that yield immediate fruit [reward] and continue to yield fruit in the world to come: honoring father and mother, deeds of loving-kindness, making peace between one person and another. And the study of Torah is equal to all of them.” --Mishnah Zeraim, Peah 1.1

Why do you think the Mishnah makes this assertion?
